

THE LOUISVILLE DAILY DEMOCRAT

VOLUME XI.

THE DAILY DEMOCRAT, PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY
HARNEY & HUGHES,
Office on Third street, between Market and Jefferson, one side.

DAILY DEMOCRAT ONE DOLLAR.
Do the carrier, 12¢ per number.

PAID.

THREE DOLLARS.

PAID.

DEMOCRAT.

MINIATURE ALMANAC.
JANUARY 1st, 1855. Moon's Phases.

19 Monday... 6:58 5:04
20 Tuesday... 6:53 5:15
21 Wednesday... 6:48 5:26
22 Thursday... 6:43 5:37
23 Friday... 6:32 5:48
24 Saturday... 6:29 5:59
25 Sunday... 6:29 5:31 First quarter 21 11 51 5

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1855.

FOR A SUBSCRIPTION, A LITTLE SAVES
&c, see appropriate heads.

The establishment at M'z Hall, for the benefit of the poor, was well attended.

The funeral of Mr. A. D. Ehrlich was largely attended by the Masonic order, on Tuesday.

The small pox is raging to a considerable extent among the soldiers at the Newport Barracks.

The Supreme Court of New York has decided that a contract for inserting an advertisement in a paper on Sunday is null and void.

The New York Tribune comes in hand over $3,000 was gonged out of that establishment, the year, by means of libel suits.

bladie-his North American has a wing upon the merits of their own steam engines.

There are a great many houses vacant in Dayton at the present time. Renters are going down.

The Criminal Court commences its operations to-day. Several indictments are to be tried at to-day.

A house on First street, between Green and Walton, was partially destroyed by fire, about 10 o'clock last night. Jas. Rudd, Esq., was the owner.

For the Poor.—The dramatic festival amateur performers, at Cincinnati on Friday night, netted more than $4,000 for the poor. Judicially expanded, that amount will readily suffice to meet the expenses of the students maintaining.

ACCIDENTAL SHOT.—A man, whose not known, shot himself by accident on Preston street, yesterday. He had borrowed the pistol to shoot a turkey, under a mistake, and tried the effect on himself first. The wound is not serious.

Death of Dr. RUGGERS.—Dr. Colemen Rodgers, one of the best physicians in this city, died on Saturday. A meeting of physicians was held, in which resolutions, as a tribute of respect, were passed. Dr. Ruggers' funeral took place on Sunday.

DR. RUGGERS, remember that Mr. C. G. Spencer salis this morning, at 10 o'clock, the entire household furniture of Mr. T. Pollard, at his residence, on Walnut street, between Seventh and Eighth. This furniture is nearly new, and of the best and most fashionable kind. Bargains may be expected, as the owner intends to quit housekeeping.

A proposition was made to Mayor Wood, of New York, a few days since, to get rid of the Belgian paupers and convicts now confined in the Toombs, by sending them west. The Mayor's answer is worthy of all praise. He says if the Belgians are used to live in New York, they are quite as well turned now as the West.

NOTES TO READERS.—Our dear friends E. A. Bigelow and J. W. F. Prince, the former author of Jackson's Household Hints, and Carter's Spanish Mixture, the latter agent for Ayr's Cherry Peacock, leave for New York to-day. We advise the fraternity to look sharp after Bigelow and Prince, they have a very ingenious way of advertising largely and saving for it. We commend them to the press as gentlemen in the truest sense of the term.

ANARCHIST.—A German woman, large, robust, and hairy, with a name unspellable and unpronounceable, was arrested by officer Rastell on Saturday night, charged with stealing a silver watch, and a pocket book containing $300, from a countryman. They had met at Hengenheuser's, on Marshall street; the countryman, who was tight, accompanied the damsel on her way home, and she says took certain liberties, to which she didn't object. She denies robbing him, and says he gave her the watch, &c, for value received. The case will come up before the police court this morning.

Kentucky's Nightingale Opera Troupes performed in Frankfort on Friday and Saturday evenings, to full houses. The hall on Friday evening was so crowded, that quite a number of persons were unable to procure seats. They perform in Lexington tonight and to-morrow night. The complimentary benefit tendered to the Mayor, and citizens of Louisville, takes place at Mozart Hall on Wednesday evening next. Several distinguished artists will appear on the occasion, in addition to the company, and the entertainment will undoubtedly be one of the most brilliant that ever took place in Louisville.

LOUISVILLE DRAMATIC ASSOCIATION.—This company of Thespians will open their series of dramatic representations this evening, at Mozart Hall. The scenery and costume are entirely new, and are gotten up with much taste and beauty. We understand that up to Saturday morning six hundred tickets had been sold. This is a sufficient quantity for the most brilliant audience that ever assembled in Mozart Hall. The company is one of much dramatic strength—the properties are appropriate and tasteful—and the play is highly attractive, and, above all, it is for the benefit of the Poor.

BAYARD TAYLOR'S LECTURE.—We promise our readers a rare treat in the lecture, which they will have an opportunity of hearing this evening, from Bayard Taylor, Esq.

It would be superfluous in us to attempt, by any pains of care, to add to the well deserved reputation of the lecturer, as a poet and a tragedian. Most of the lecture going, community remunerates his lectures on Arabic and Japan. This evening, his subject is India, and we doubt not, he will be greeted with a large and intelligent audience. He lectures in the Chestnut Street Presbyterian Church, at 7 o'clock. To-morrow night his subject will be "The Philanthropy of Travel."

For the Louisville Democ.

MEETING OF PHYSICIANS.—A meeting of physicians of Louisville held a meeting at the office of Drs. Wible & Bremis, on Saturday afternoon, 17th instant, for the purpose of adopting suitable measures for expressing their views on the subject of the time they entered for their late colleague, Dr. Colemen Rodgers.

Dr. U. E. Ewing was called to the chair, and Dr. T. S. Bell appointed Secretary.

Professor J. B. Flint offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That, as the physicians of medicine, one after another, are called from the field of our country's labors, it becomes those who are left to communicate their protest to the departed, and their sympathies in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we request our said delegates to franklin, and respectfully suggest the name of Hon. L. M. Powell, as a suitable candidate for the chair, and Dr. T. S. Bell appointed Secretary.

Professor J. B. Flint offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust our said delegates to franklin, and respectfully suggest the name of Hon. L. M. Powell, as a suitable candidate for the chair, and Dr. T. S. Bell appointed Secretary.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in their discharge of the arduous duties of the physician's life.

Resolved, That we trust the arduous practice of medicine, as a calling, the senior member of our city faculty, as a physician of remarkable sagacity and skill, and of constantly augmenting acquisitions of knowledge, both by experience and study, as a man of strongly marked character, and one who can not be easily analyzed and appraised in a superficial notice. Dr. Rogers deserved, from his medical brethren, something more than the impudent recitation of the sum of his estimation of that faithfulness in

